ICBC Decals No longer Required

Starting May 1st, British Columbian drivers will not be required to display their ICBC decal on their licence plates.

The change partners with ICBC's official launch of online insurance renewals.

Drivers will now be able to renew their policy online up to 44 days before it expires.

ICBC claims about 3,000 people have already used the new method.

If customers aren't making any changes to their policy and it is a personal vehicle with a single owner, they could be eligible to renew online.

Customers renewing online will still need to print a copy of their insurance to keep in their vehicle.

Buying a new policy or making changes will still need to be done in person.

Transitioning to online renewals will not save drivers any money. Autoplan brokers are still required to review each renewal and will still be paid the same amount to do so.

ICBC says there will be no basic rate changes until December.

On May 10 (next Tuesday) Peace River residents will get the chance to have their say on how they are represented in Victoria.

The BC Electoral Boundaries Commission is coming to town to hear what you have to say on changes that could be coming for the local electoral district – what kind of area the next MLA will represent. This is a critical issue for us in the Peace and all of us in rural B.C. because there is a distinct chance that the process will end with fewer MLA representing the rural citizens of B.C.

We could see the entire Peace Region combined to create a new mega riding where a single MLA would represent everyone living in Northeast B.C.—from Alberta to the Rocky Mountains, and from Jasper to the Yukon. That's an area almost the size of the entire African nation of Senegal, 1.5 times the size of Greece, or twice the size of South Korea. It is one-fifth of the entire province—and it could be represented by a single MLA.

The argument often offered from urban B.C. is that each MLA should represent the same number of people. But that ignores the fact that in Vancouver or Surrey or Abbotsford it's a matter of minutes to get to see anyone living in the electoral district, while in the potential massive Peace River riding it would take almost a day to get from one side of the riding to the other (weather permitting). A Vancouver MLA could drive from downtown to Prince George in the same amount of time.

As MLAs, we often work closely with our municipal counterparts. We meet on a regular basis, and we are always chatting about issues that need to be taken to Victoria. Right now, the MLA in each riding deals with four municipal councils on their issues. Down in Vancouver the council deals with 11 MLAs, and in Surrey it is 8 MLAs. That's a whole different type of representation.

These are just some of the reasons why the last government protected rural representation when boundaries were redrawn back in 2015. One wonders why that protection has been tossed aside by the current government.

The issue is bigger than any individual MLA or riding – it impacts all of rural B.C. There is the potential for Northern B.C. to go from eight seats down to four or five. That means fewer rural voices to be heard in the debate in Victoria. We already know the difficulty of having our concerns respected and heard, whether it is mountain caribou, LNG development, or rural health care. It will only get worse.

Rural B.C. has also been the defenders of the resource industries that fuel the province – and the prosperity of urban B.C. Whether it is agriculture, oil and gas, forestry, mining, or fisheries, rural B.C. drives so much of the revenues that benefits the rest of the province. There will be fewer voices to defend those sectors and the family-supporting jobs they bring to so many of us.

You now have your chance to share your thoughts in person on how you want to be represented in Victoria – and what shape you want the rural representation to take. If we don't want our access and rights taken away, we need to speak out. The BC Electoral Boundaries Commission will be in Dawson Creek at the George Dawson Inn at 11705 8th St from 8:30 am on to hear from local residents. Please consider going to info@bcebc.ca and registering to have your voice heard and I hope to see a huge turnout to show them we do not support any changes. We want things to stay the way they are at the very least. I encourage you to get out and share your thoughts on the type of representation you want for rural B.C. and the Peace.

Two children ordered their mother to stay in bed one Mother's Day morning. As she lay there looking forward to breakfast in bed, the smell of bacon floated up from the kitchen. But after a good long wait she finally went downstairs to investigate. She found them both sitting at the table eating bacon and eggs. "As a surprise for Mother's Day," one explained, "We decided to cook our own breakfast."

Much loved step-grandfather to Tarah, Sadie, Jonathan, Kyle and Zak, Michael and Connor.

Joseph was born in Woodstock Ontario to John and Agnes Furtenbacher (nee Frank).

He attended Ryerson Polytechnical institute, and worked for Canadian National Telecommunications throughout his career.

Joe and Rene moved to Chetwynd, British Columbia in 1993. They greatly enjoyed all the birds and wildlife on their rural property. Joe enjoyed golf with his "dinosaur clubs". He was also an avid and skilled photographer, a hunter, and belonged to many bowling leagues over the years. He enjoyed tending his plants, and caring for his beloved dogs.

Cremation has taken place, and Joe and Rene will be interred in Tuscoola Mountain Cemetery. In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to Chetwynd Hospital, in appreciation for their excellent care of Joe throughout the years, and in his final days.

Service to take place at the Tuscoola mountain cemetery Monday, May 9th at 1pm

A little girl asked her mum, "How did the human race appear?" Mum answered, "God made Adam and Eve and they had children, and so was all mankind made ...". Two days later the girl asked her Dad the same question. Dad answered, "Many years ago there were monkeys from which the human race evolved." The confused girl returned to her mum and

Mum: The amazing ability to hear a sneeze through 3 closed doors in the middle of the night, three bedrooms away... while Daddy snores next to you.

said, "Mum, how is it possible that you told me the human race was created by God, and Dad said they developed from monkeys?"

The mother answered, "Well, dear, it is very simple. I told you about my side of the family and your father told you about his!"
