BCHP stops impaired driver for excessive speed

On July 24, 2022 as the month-long Summer CounterAttack Impaired Driving campaign draws to a close, BC Highway Patrol Dawson Creek stopped a vehicle for excessive speed on Highway 97 between Dawson Creek and Chetwynd.

The officer spoke with the lone driver of the vehicle and advised him he was traveling at 159 km/h in a posted 100 km/h zone. While speaking with the driver, the officer noted several symptoms of impairment and had the driver submit to a mandatory roadside breath test. The result was a Fail.

The driver was given a $368 ticket for excessive speed, a 90-day Immediate Roadside (driving) Prohibition and his vehicle was impounded for 30 days.

Police radar reading Target 159, Police 98, black pickup in background

Although the month-long impaired driving campaign is winding down, police will continue to look out for impaired drivers, says Cpl. Trevor Vokins, Unit Commander of BCHP Dawson Creek. Police cannot stress enough the importance of choosing alternate ways to your destination if you have consumed anything that impairs your ability to drive. Please choose to drive sober every time you get behind the wheel – choosing not to may lead to tragic consequences.

In BC, an average of 65 people are killed every year in collisions where alcohol, drugs or medications* were contributing factors. The mandate of BC Highway Patrol is to focus enforcement on those driving behaviours that cause roadway fatalities and serious injuries, including impaired driving. BCHP works closely with its road safety partners, including the motoring public, to make our highways safer together.

Should you punish your child for something that happened at school?

If your child misbehaves at school, you may be wondering how to address the issue. Here's some advice to keep in mind if your son or daughter gets into trouble during the school day. Once you've been informed about the incident, it's important to discuss the matter with your child. Keep in mind, however, that they've likely already received some form of punishment from their teacher or principal. Therefore, further disciplining your child at home might not be the best solution. If they've suffered the consequences for their actions, it's probably best to move on. However, there are steps you can take to help prevent a repeat of the incident. Start by inviting your child to explain what happened. Once you've heard their side of the story, explain the perspective of the adult who caught them misbehaving. Finally, discuss with your child ways they can respond more appropriately if the situation arises again.

In short, the goal should be to get your child to reflect on their actions and encourage them to make better decisions in the future.
